you lost your car keys in it.

I park your sorry ass in hell?

WHICH DUTTON SAID IT?

CONVERSATION GAME

Every so often, you say something that makes me think you're smart. And then I look at you and that thought fades.

BETH

God sure finds interesting ways to put people out of business.

KAYCE

You are the trailer;
I am the tornado.

BETH

I don't speak dipsh*t.

BETH

It wasn't a move. I'm just meaner than you.

JOHN

I'm sorry' are two words you never have to say to me.

RIP

I'm gonna give you one last chance. You leave now or you never leave.

RIP

There ain't no such thing as luck, but I sure believe in stupid cause' you prove it every f--kin' day!

RIP

Where's the fun in wrecking a single man? When I break you, I want to know I'm breaking generations.

BETH

I look at every day with you as a gift. My tomorrows are, well, they're all words. There's no word I'd rather call you if that's what you want.

RIP

WHICH DUTTON SAID IT?

CONVERSATION GAME

The only reason you're not choking on irony is the size of your mouth.

BETH

Leverage is knowing that if someone had all the money in the world, this is what they'd buy.

JOHN

For someone with no spine, you've sure got a lot of balls.

BETH

I'm celibate because I am terrified to get somebody pregnant and pass on the gene that made you.

JAIME

Well, if you're marrying Beth, you've already proved you're not scared of anything.

JOHN

It's the one constant in life. You build something worth having, someone's gonna try to take it.

JOHN

No one wants to merge with you. You have a three-to-one debt ratio. It'd be easier to sell VCRs.

BETH

If I'm going to lose you, it's going to be about what I did, not because I lied to you.

KAYCE

Is it a one-shot or two-shot day?

RIP

This ain't checkers. This is chess and you're about to play it with masters.
